NEIGHBORS.

In the matter of neighbors, distance lends enchantment. It is not difficult to love your neighbor as yourself if you don't know too much about him. It is not difficult to shed tears over the woes of the poor heathen in far off Africa, for the intervening ocean affords an element of romance. At a distance of five thousand miles, you can't smell him.

To love the downtrodden in other lands does us small credit. We do not love the individual, but only the ideal conception of him our imagination has formed. If he lived next door, we would phone the Health Department and demand that some of the dirt be scraped from his hide and the matted tangle removed from his infested hair.

Nor should we be censured too severely if we fail to love the neighbor next door. We know his faults and his failings, and we yearn to correct them. Our spiritual natures may urge us to love him, but our carnal natures urge us to bounce a brick off his head for the good of his soul and the general uplifting of the community.

He has a dog that howls at night, or hens that forage the neighborhood for their provender; he has a daughter who can't sing but has yet to learn of her misfortune, or he practices on a cornet after midnight; his garbage can smells to heaven, or he fills the alley with goods boxes and tin cans; he does many, many things no considerate white man would do, and an unfortunate respect for good manners stills our tongues when we would call upon him and tell him in high-powered language just what kind of man he is.

It is doubtless wicked not to love your neighbor; but it is even more wicked to lie about it. And no regular man born of woman can love a neighbor who lives next door and makes himself a nuisance.

Noble purpose: Ku Klux; ten bucks Brief history of glorious war: Preper; despair; repair.

Life is getting to be just one darn crisis after another.

History repeats itself. Paragraphs have the same weakness.
Old King Coal once called for his fiddlers, not his sharpshooters.

There are over five million unemployed, not counting Government of us.

The income tax exemption of $400 for each dependent will prove a great relief to everybody except the stork.
Let's see; how was it the afflicted peoples got along before Columbus discovered America?

Eventually the nations will agree concerning everything except a version of the war.

All this talk about a hard winter indicates that we are not yet relieved of excess prophets.

There is something peculiarly touching about a bald-headed man's condemnation of bobbed hair.

It is asserted that the Disarmament Conference will mark the first page of a new era of history. You might call it the "Contestance."

There are two kinds of poets: Those who write real poetry, and those who write pretty good living.

The man who said: "A woman is as old as she hasn't seen her at seven o'clock the morning after a party."

Engineers say the dams in this country are too weak. They might try prefixing a few adjectives.

And yet the suckers that men do live after them, and breathe a pure air that is unknown in jails.

The few things a woman can't accomplish with a hair pin, she can buddle very nicely with a can opener.
When the affable stranger offers a cigar, you can't tell whether he is a politician or a hooch peddler.

The old-fashioned farmer bought gold bricks, but he was probably too wise to put his faith in hair restorers.

But if you build your house in the depths of the forest, the coal man won't make a beaten path to your door.

WHO REALLY CARES?

What's the difference between the interest which a good public official has in his fellow men and the interest which a bad public official has in them? Nowadays the good one undertakes to do things honestly and efficiently but he lacks the personal sympathetic human interest for the individuals who are the people of his community. He considers them in the mass. He expects from them only conformity with his honest, efficient program. He is surprised and disgusted when they turn him down for re-election. The bad one treats the people as individuals. He knows them by name. He has concern for their ups and downs, their births, marriages, deaths. He appeals to their individualities. He lets them do what they want to do. In turn they let him do what he wants to do—organize, gain power, bestow graft on his relatives and friends, if indeed he does not take it himself.
He sees that the people are not interested in honesty or efficiency in Government. Neither is he—so why be honest or efficient? But, the bad one doesn't really care for the people. He merely honors them to gain his own ends. As a matter of fact the good one really cares more for the welfare of the people than the bad one does, but he fails to make them realize it—possibly he himself doesn't realize it. Who can tell which program benefits the people most?
Is either program a benefit to the people? Will there ever be a new kind of politician—one who has the heart really to care for the people as individuals, or at least the tact to make them think he does, and at the same time to possess a zealous determination and a skillful ability to serve them honestly and efficiently?
When he comes will he be crowned or crucified?

REGULUS.

It is related that when Rome and Carthage were at war, the Cartha-gians captured a Roman officer named Regulus and were about to torture him to death after their pleasant Punic custom, when he asked to return to Rome to bid his wife and children farewell before his death, promising to return to meet his fate at the end of a certain period of time. It is a wonderful commentary on the sense of honor of that day to know that the captors of Regulus accepted his word and allowed him to return. Even they, cruel barbarians that they were, trusted the word of a Roman citizen. At the appointed time he came back to Carthage, where he was tortured to death. Years later, the Roman legions levelled the walls of that city to the earth and today it is adsest.
But Regulus, who died there, shall never be forgotten. The very fact that you are reading this editorial over two thousand years after he lived is proof that the world of men will ever love and honor such a man —a man who kept his word in the face of agony and death.

MILE LONG NET CONFISCATED

Fort Pierce, Oct. 1.—Seizure last week in the Indian River near Jensen of a seine nearly a mile and a quarter in length and valued at approximately $3,000, because of alleged violation of the special law prohibiting seining in this county, has resulted in a conflict of authority between Deputy Sheriff Fish Commissioner Van Auker and county officials. Ernest L. Ricou, of the Ricou fish concern, at Jensen, replevined the Florida East Coast railroad against transporting the net, the authorities having prepared to ship it to Tallahassee, presumably for destruction, as provided by the law, and posted bond, the seine being turned over to the sheriff of St. Lucie county to be held until the court acted.
Thereupon, Van Auker brought mandamus proceedings to compel the sheriff to deliver the seine to him, and herein on this action was to be held before Circuit Judge Davis, in West Palm Beach.

Mr. Ricou is said to have claimed ownership of the seine but declared it was for use in the ocean and was set in the Indian river without his knowledge. When Van Auker descended upon the net and made the seizure, fishermen in two launches were nearby. One boat was deserted, the crew escaping in the mangrove swamp, while the other fled. The deserted launch was delivered to the owner by Van Auker.

A MISTAKE MADE BY MANY

Don't wait for rheumatism to indicate diseased kidneys. When you suffer pain and aches by day and sleep disturbing bladder weakness by night, feel tired, nervous and run down, the kidneys and bladder should be restored to healthy, strong and regular action. It is a mistake to neglect treatment. Foley Kidney Pills put the kidneys in sound health condition and keep them active and strong. Begin taking today. Good results follow quickly. For sale by

Band Concert Sunday 4:30 P. M.

The usual Sunday afternoon concert will commence promptly at 4:30. These concerts will continue through the winter season and will no doubt be a large drawing card for Palatka. Although the band is scarcely two months old, it is evident that this project is bringing numbers of people from the surrounding towns. Arrangements have been made for better parking space for automobiles and it is advisable to come early so as to get your car parked before the concert commence. The director, Mr. Shaarouse, promises an especially well arranged concert for this afternoon and also states that the band will be glad to render any number by special request provided he is notified before the regular program has been announced. There will be a large improvement noticed in the rendition of the numbers played when the new band stand is completed. At present it must be understood that when a band is playing absolutely in the open air that most of the effect is lost, however, this will be remedied with a new band stand.

- The program for this afternoon is as follows:
1. MARCH—"National Emblem" Bagley
  2. OVERTURE—"The Golden Dragon" King
  3. POPULAR NUMBER—"Molly on a Trolly" Schwartz (Fox Trot Song)
  4. TROMBONE SMEAR—"Teddy Trombone" Fillmore
  5. GRAND SELECTION—"Songs of Scotland" Compiled and arranged by J. Bodewalt Lampe.

Synopsis:—"The Blue Bells of Scotland," "The Campbells Are Coming," "Coming Thro' the Rye," "Charlie Is My Darling," "A Highland Lad My Love Was Born," "Loch Lomond," "What'll Be King But Charlie," "There's Nae Luck About the House," "Bonnie Laddie, Highland Laddie," "Bonnie Doon," "Twins Within a Mile O'Edinburgh Town," "To the Lords O'Convention," "Annie Laurie," "Johnnie Cope," "Come Under My Plaidie," "John Anderson, My Jo," "The De'il Among the Tailors" and "Scots Wha Hae Wi' Wallace Bled," "Weel May the Keel Row," "Auld Lang Syne."

6. INTERMEZZO SINFONICO—"Cavalleria Rusticana" Mascagi
7. MARCH—"The Thunderer" Sousa

This Thief Should Have Read Will of Man Found Dead

Special to the News Sensis, France, Oct. 1.—Three hundred yards from the monument which marks the furthest southern advance of the German army in France, in the woods near here, Antoine Demuy, a pensioned railroad worker, while strolling after lunch, stumbled upon the body of a man, whose right hand still held a revolver.

Demuy lost no time in going through the dead man's pockets and appropriating 3,500 francs, scorning National Defence Bonds and other papers among which, a will and last testament.

Noticing his exaggerated expenditures and failing to obtain any information from her husband as to the hidden source of his sudden wealth, Demuy's wife reported him to the police. He was arrested and upon threat of being charged with theft, directed the police to the spot where the body was found.

A gendarme opened the will. The first article read: "I am friendless, without family, I leave all the money, bonds, valuables found on me to the person finding my body, after deducting the expenses of a modest funeral."

Demuy had failed to read the will.
He will be arraigned on a charge of theft.

Snake Hide and Seek Around Auto

(By Associated Press)
Pueblo, Colo., Oct. 1.—J. H. Weis-gerber, a telegraph operator, while touring the country in an automobile recently, had an exciting experience with a red racer snake.

The snake, which was five and a half feet long, crawled under the car having bitten into the tire. The car was stopped but no trace of the snake could be found. Eventually, it was discovered in the battery box only to be lost again in the mechanism of the machine. When finally located in the dust pan, it was killed.

Don't Stub Your Toe!

One dark night—so the story goes—a certain monarch placed a large boulder in the middle of the road. Thousands of his people, thereafter, severely stubbed their toes or troubled to walk around. At length, one lusty youth —wiser than the rest—seized the stone and heaved it from his path. And where it had rested, he found a bag of gold.

Are you stubbing your toe? Are you overlooking any bags of gold? How about the advertising in this paper?
Do you read it—consistently? It is a bag of gold to many of our readers.

In our columns you will find the advertisements of alert progressive merchants and manufacturers who seek to tell you something they think you ought to know. This advertising is news about the very things that interest you most—articles that will save you money, lessen your work, or add materially to your comfort and well being.

Thrifty men and women read advertising. To them it is a plain, every day business proposition—a duty they owe themselves and their purses. It tells them where they can buy exactly what they want at a price they can afford to pay.

Advertising pays them. They make it pay.

It will pay you, too. Read it.
